

PARLIAMENT TODAY HELD ITS FIRST BIG MEETING

English Law Makers Will Hear The King's Speech Today--Very Grand Procession.

[By Associated Press.]
London, Feb. 19.—King Edward opened the second Parliament of his reign this afternoon with the customary ceremony. The absence of Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and the mourning thrown by the death of King Christian detracted somewhat from the brilliancy of the pageant.

The first session of the second Parliament of the reign of King Edward VII. and the twenty-seventh of the united kingdom was opened this afternoon by the King. Since His Majesty ascended the throne he has personally opened each of the six sessions of Parliament adding much to that most ceremonious occasion. Tomorrow's event has the added interest in that it will be the first new Parliament to be opened by the King but more particularly because of the great change that has come over the personnel of the House of Commons as a result of the recent general election. The pageant was much like those that have gone before, somewhat detracted from by the absence of the Queen, who is at Copenhagen to attend the funeral of her father, King Christian, and the Prince and Princess of Wales who are in India, and who in the past have preceded the King and Queen to Westminster, giving additional color to the show. Weather permitting there was no diminution, however, in the size of the crowds who all turned out to witness the procession and show their loyalty to the sovereign. The quadrangle on which Buckingham palace faces and all the open spaces in the vicinity was crowded with people, while the Mall which skirts St. James' park, the Horse Guards, Whitehall and Parliament streets and Old Palace yard were lined by thousands who all stood for hours and for that reason possibly cheered more heartily than ever as the gold-crested state coach drawn by eight beautifully caparisoned cream horses passed at a slow walk. The line of the procession was flanked by the Foot Guards and police, not for protection, but as a part of the ceremony, while a sovereign's escort of the Household Cavalry, in addition to a detachment of the Yeomen of the Guard acted as a bodyguard. The state coach was preceded by six state carriages occupied by the ladies and gentlemen of the Household.

This procession and the return journey from Westminster to Buckingham palace is for the benefit of the general public. The great spectacle is for the favored ones, who will find themselves in the Peers' chamber of the House of Lords. There was gathered an imposing assembly of peers, peeresses, ecclesiastics, judges, ambassadors and ministers of foreign countries with their wives. The peeresses were the first to arrive and had taken their places before the peers reach the House.

Except in the case of the dukes, for whom a bench immediately below that of the Duchesses is reserved, the order of precedence among the peers is not observed, the early arrivals taking their choice of the seats and the late ones wherever they can find room. Liberals, conservatives, free traders and tariff reformers freely mingling. All were arrayed in their heavy crimson robes. The bishops in scarlet robes, with long ermine capes, the judges in black and gold or crimson and white increased the impressiveness of the scene. Amidst all this the ambassadors and ministers of foreign nations, wearing their varying uniforms, broad green or crimson sashes, stars and decorations constituted the most brilliant group in the assembly. Among them was Whiteley Reid, the American ambassador, in plain black court dress. In the galleries every seat was occupied by somebody officially or socially prominent.

The approach of the King, who was met at the entrance to the House of Lords by the great officers of state and escorted to the robing room where he donned his mantle of purple and ermine, was announced by heralds in medieval tabards. Preceded by officers of state bearing the imperial crown, cap of maintenance and sword of state, the latter in its scabbard held aloft, all having distinctive significance, the King then proceeded to the House of Lords and soon afterwards dispatched the gentleman usher of the Black Rod to summon the members of the House of Commons, many of whom anticipated the command and were already crowded into the galleries. This did not interfere with the carrying out of the formality. Black Rod proceeded to the lower House and there delivered the King's message as follows:

"Mr. Speaker.—The King commands this honorable House to attend His Majesty in the House of Lords to hear the King's speech read."

Those who waited patiently for the summons, chiefly the older members, to whom the ceremony is not new, accompanied the speaker to the bar of the House of Lords, where the King, reading from a printed copy, delivered his message to the legislators. The formality was soon over and the King passed out of the Chamber in the same manner as he entered it.

Almost immediately afterwards the two Houses of Parliament commenced to clear away the routine, the first item of which will be the re-reading of the King's speech, thereby bringing about the first general debate of the session, that on the address in reply to the speech from the throne.

ALLEGED ABUSE OF INSANE MEN BY THE ATTENDANTS

Inmates of Federal Asylum Are Maltreated
By The Attendants..Claim Keepers Are Inhuman.

Washington, Feb. 19.—A committee composed of Dr. Charles M. Emonds and Attorney Richard P. Evans, appointed by the medico-legal society of the District of Columbia, to investigate the condition of affairs at St. Elizabeth's government asylum for the insane, near this city, has made serious statements regarding the management at that institution.

A copy of the report will be sent to the president, and it is said the grand jury may be called on to make an investigation.

Patients Are Molested.
The committee asserts that strait-jackets, handcuffs, etc., are in frequent use; that the "feeding tube" upon occasions has been thrust through the nostril down the throat as a means of punishment and discipline as well as of alleged necessity.

Many other like occurrences are reported. The committee says it has no idea that these practices, if they exist, are known or permitted by Sept. White, but he has to leave all details of care and treatment to his subordinates.

Reference is made to the "bull pen," where it is said some 500 inmates are confined, the management of which the committee condemns. As to the medical treatment the old soldiers receive, the report says there appears to be no information obtainable from the reports, judging from those examined under authority of court.

Autopsies Are Stopped.
The committee refers to the report of the superintendent of the hospital regarding autopsies, and makes this comment:

"A like proportion of autopsies (124 out of 235 deaths) occurring in our city hospitals would necessitate a large staff of deputy coroners, especially if dissections were commenced within three hours after death, while the body was still warm, as has been stated authoritatively, is done at St. Elizabeth's."

LABOR LEADERS SPIRITED AWAY

Armed Deputies Guard The Officers Of The Western Federation Of Miners.

TO FACE THE CHARGE OF MURDER

Men Charged With Complicity In The Slaying Of Idaho
Governor Are Taken From Denver To Boise City In Special.

Denver, Colo., Feb. 19.—Under a guard of twelve armed deputies, President Charles H. Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners, William D. Haywood, secretary, and C. A. Pettibone, a former member of the executive board, who were arrested Saturday night on warrants charging them with complicity in the murder of former Gov. Steunenburg of Idaho, were taken from their cells early Sunday morning, placed on a special train and taken to Boise, Idaho, where they will face trial.

The three men, it was learned, were arrested by three different officers, after extradition papers had been signed by Gov. McDonald. The papers were delivered to the governor on Thursday last, but not a word to the effect was allowed to escape from the executive chamber. In fact, it is believed that no one except the authorities who came with them to the city was advised that Gov. McDonald had in his possession the papers issued in Idaho.

Arrest Officials Separately.
From information received from the officials at the county jail, where Moyer, Haywood and Pettibone were taken immediately upon their arrest by deputies, it is understood that three deputies were detailed from the office of Sheriff Nesbitt of Denver to make the arrests. The officers were instructed to preserve the greatest secrecy as to their mission.

President Moyer was about to leave the city for Deadwood, S. D., last night when he was accosted in the train by a deputy who forthwith presented a warrant for Moyer's arrest. Secretary Haywood was taken into custody by an officer just as he had stepped from the elevator to the main floor of a downtown building. It is thought that little attention was paid to Pettibone before his arrest. No watch, it is said, was kept over his movements, and he was arrested almost simultaneously with the others, but in a very secret manner.

Neither of the federation officials were informed of the other's arrest, and only when the three men were led out of separate cells Sunday morning preparatory to the journey to the depot were the prisoners allowed the information that a triple arrest had been made the night before on warrants charging complicity in the murder of Idaho's former governor.

Governor Talks of Arrests.
Over the long-distance telephone from Colorado Springs Governor McDonald said:

"I am surprised to learn that a special train was used to convey the criminals of the Western Federation of Miners from Denver. I had no knowledge of a plan to secretly spirit the men out of town."

"I spent all of Thursday, as well as Friday and a part of Saturday, investigating the charges against the federation officials, and in the end I honored the requisition papers. I gave out no information about the papers being in my possession, lest it should be the means of creating a movement to keep the men from the authorities who were in Denver to arrest them."

The governor was then told that Adjutant General Wells was absent from the city, and was pressed to answer if he had gone on the train with the prisoners.

The governor explained that General Wells had been granted a leave of absence by himself, and that if he had left for Boise on the special he went as a private citizen.

Another Union President Seized.
Spokane, Wash., Feb. 19.—Victor St. John, president of the Burke Miners' union, was arrested at Burke Sunday, presumably in connection with the murder of ex-Gov. Steunenburg of Idaho.

J. A. M'CALL IS DEAD AT HIS PALATIAL RESIDENCE

Late President Of The New York Life Company Dies Of A Broken Heart
Sunday.

[By Associated Press.]
New York, Feb. 19.—John Augustine McCall, former president of the New York Life Insurance company, recipient of a $100,000 a year salary and until a few months ago looked upon as the foremost insurance man in America, if not in the entire world, is dead at the palatial Laurel house in Lakewood, N. J., of a broken heart. He died, discredited and denounced, and the closing hours of his life were filled with bitterness. Only his family remained faithful and believed in him to the end.

Mr. McCall was 60 years old and in strong health and spirits when the Armstrong legislative committee was called together to investigate the affairs and methods of the great life insurance companies. His breakdown and death were caused directly by the sensational revelations which followed—revelations that called down on McCall the head of the wrath of an angry nation and forced him in haste to resign and to sell under the hammer his beautiful summer palace at Long Branch, N. J., which cost him close to $1,000,000.

Unconscious Fourteen Hours.
John A. McCall died at 5:35 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Laurel house in Lakewood, where he had been taken three weeks ago in the hope that the change might benefit his health, which had suffered a breakdown two months ago. The news of the death was not given out by the family until some time after the end. Then Mr. McCall's son, John C. McCall, briefly announced: "The end has come. My father has passed away."

Mr. McCall had been unconscious since about 1 o'clock Sunday morning except possibly for one brief minute in the afternoon when his eyes opened and looked into the face of his wife, who was bending over him. He smiled and, as he did so, his eyes closed again and he remained in the coma until the end.

MARK LEVY ON CIRCUMCISION

CUSTOM IS NOT CONTRARY TO TEACHINGS OF CHRIST.

PLEA FOR PASSOVER FEAST

Jew Will Always Be Jew, and His National Customs and Days Are Not Sacrilegious.

Mark Levy of London, England, a Christianized Hebrew and an evangelist of note, spoke in two churches in the city yesterday and delivered an address at the Men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. in the afternoon. Mr. Levy filled the pulpit at Christ church in the morning taking for his topic, "The Gospel of Christ and the Customs of Israel." In the evening he delivered a sermon at Trinity church, his subject being, "Israel's Love for the Gentiles and the Christian's Love for the Jews." In the morning Mr. Levy said in part as follows:

"My earliest recollection of names and things Divine was the lullaby the Christian nurses sang in our Jewish home:

"Gentle Jesus, meek and mild, Look upon a little child."

"So far as memory served, my childish mind regarded the One of whom they sang as a good man, whose special object was the care and protection of little children, and instinctively my mind went out to Him in love. But at an early age, on being sent to school and having to undergo on our English streets the ordeal of taunt and scorn of strange boys, whom I was taught to regard as followers of Jesus, my love for Him quickly turned to dislike which deepened into positive hatred of His name when the terrible persecutions of the Jews, at the hands of professing Christians, was subsequently brought to my knowledge."

"In early manhood, having failed to find spiritual consolation in the synagogue, I commenced attending church and reading the New Testament. Quickly realizing the glorious beauty of the character of Jesus, I came to the mental conclusion that He was truly the Messiah. At that time there was living in England scores of Jewish ministers of the Gospel who had practically become Gentilized and withdrawn their light from the congregations of Israel." Thus the racial sources of spiritual aid were hidden from a despairing brother in Israel, because the Jews who had found Christ did not become as Jews to the Jews to gain the Jews.

"Great misunderstanding has arisen because the Abrahamic and Mosiac covenants are so often linked together. St. Paul distinctly declared that the law which came 430 years after does not disannul the covenant of circumcision made with Abraham, which is a seal of the righteousness of faith. One of the first acts of St. Paul after leaving the council of Jerusalem, where he had pleaded so nobly for social freedom for the Gentiles, was to circumcise Timothy."

GAMBLING WITH DEATH

What Many of Us Are Doing Three Times a Day.

For everything we get something is taken away. Every act pulls two ways. Some men in power do but their souls for it. They can't have soul and power at the same time.

And so, in this quickening age, most of us can't have energy and health at the same time. One or the other must be lost, and it is usually health.

We know we are doing wrong and would like to reform, but we have a morbid fear of being afraid if we aim to live and eat according to conscience and good sense.

Some of us break away for awhile and on slave ourselves to a diet. We read about the hardy Scotsman being fed on porridge and oatmeal, making soldiers of muscle and dash, and how Caesar's army was fed on corn. But the diet doesn't last long. We quickly swing back into the great line, eating and drinking in fulness like the rest, eating anything and everything, at any time, and any way we find it. We say "what is a stomach for if it isn't to obey the palate?"

But there is really no one rule applicable to everybody's stomach. What one man may eat another may not.

But the dyspeptic should remember that the death list has a dark shadow hovering over it with a long bony finger pointing to "died of heart disease." Physicians will tell us that there are few cases of heart disease that do not come from a stomach derangement.

At every meal we may be brewing for ourselves a terrible case of dyspepsia. It may come upon us after breakfast-to-morrow morning, or after that oyster supper to-morrow night.

Acute indigestion means that you have even chances for death or life. That's the gamble you are taking. That precious gastric juice decides, as a rule, whether you continue to live or not.

Therefore, if you feel your food lies like a "lump of lead" on your stomach, beware! Your gastric juice is weak. It can't dispose of the food in time to prevent fermentation. Take something that will do it effectively, and at once. Take Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, the most powerful tablets in the world for the relief of all kinds of stomach trouble, nausea, indigestion, the worst cases of dyspepsia, fermentation, bloaty feeling, sourness, heartburn and brash.

One grain of an ingredient of these tablets will digest 3,000 grains of food. Your stomach needs a rest at once. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will relieve your stomach of more than two-thirds of the work it has to do, digesting perfectly whatever food there is in your stomach.

You can't do your work well or be cheerful, or have energy or vim or ambition, when your stomach is bad. Make yourself feel good, after a hearty meal, feel good all over, clear your mind and make you enjoy life, by taking Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Give your stomach a rest, so it can right itself, then you need fear nothing. You can get these tablets anywhere for 50 cents a package.

'TOOK OFF' IRVING IN HIS PRESENCE

And Great English Actor Was Distinctly Displeased—Anecdote of Henry E. Dixey.

One of John S. Wise's reminiscences of great men entitled "In the Wings With Irving," and appearing in the Saturday Evening Post of Nov. 11, 1905, contains the following anecdote which will be of especial interest to those who witnessed Henry E. Dixey's work in "The Man On the Box" Friday evening as well as the others who remember his work as an impersonator on the occasion of a former visit here many years ago.

An amusing thing occurred one night at the Lambs Club in New York. It was the night of one of their gambols and Irving was present. It was the custom of the club to travel by the popular actors of the day. Harry Dixey, who is an invincible mimic, was brought in dressed to represent Henry Irving. He had Irving's walk, Irving's voice and Irving's mannerisms down to perfection. He came in with a tin bucket, walked as Irving walked, to an imitation pump, and pumped for some time without getting the review of the Northwestern Mutual any water. Then, looking up with the very expression and intonation of Irving, he said: "Ha! Ha! We never miss the water—till the well runs dry."

The thing was so ridiculous and so like Irving that the guests immediately went into convulsions. Irving sat there with his elbow on the table and his hand under his chin, watching Dixey with a curious grim expression on his face. General Horace Porter sat next to Irving and nudged him, saying:

"Irving, what do you think of it? Do you like it?"

Without changing his pose or his expression, Irving replied: "Ha! Ha! I say I do, but I don't."

HAD A LETTER FROM LONGWORTH HIMSELF

Evansville Business Women Dine in Honor of Whitehouse Bridal Couple.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Evansville, Feb. 18.—The annual banquet of the business women was held in the Central house last Friday evening. At 7:30 the grand march commenced and about sixty ladies marched to the dining-room. The tables were nicely arranged and were tastefully decorated with ferns and green ribbons. A delicious five-course dinner was served, which reflects great credit on Landlord Allen. The affair was in the nature of a Roosevelt-Longworth wedding reception.

Each lady was presented with a souvenir badge of Alice blue satin ribbon on which was pinned a fine photo of Mrs. Longworth. After a fine program was listened to, Miss Marilla Andrews, our postmaster, acted as toastmistress. An excellent toast on "The Groom" was given by Rev. Mrs. Ellen A. Copp of Madison, a former pastor in this city. Other toasts were greatly enjoyed. Miss Andrews read letters which she had personally received from Representative Nicholas Longworth and Representative Nicholas Cooper which were very interesting. Several musical numbers were enjoyed, among them being solos by Mrs. Maude Axtell and Mrs. Nettie Copeland, and instrumental duets by Miss Thorne and Mrs. Lees. The occasion proved one of the most pleasant affairs of the season, and it is hoped another may take place in the near future.

DUCKS DID NOT ALL GO SOUTH

THEY ARE SCARCE AROUND WINTER HAUNTS IN FLORIDA.

RAINS MAKE FISHING POOR

Letter from Punta Gorda—Janesville Party Ready with Interest of Clock Factory Fiasco.

(By H. F. B.)

Cleveland, Fla., Feb. 13, 1906. A rainy day in Florida is usually uncommon and yet the present winter has been wet, so much so that the streams are full and the Peace river, a fresh water stream, which enters Charlotte Harbor and the bay opposite Punta Gorda, is scarcely tainted with salt water.

The stream is so high and the current so strong that the incoming tides are retarded and as a result the sea fish, which are usually abundant at this season, have not yet made their appearance to any extent.

Mr. Bailey, who has been coming to this country for 20 years, says that formerly quail and wild turkey were abundant within two or three miles of the house, while a couple of hours' fishing supplied the table any day.

Today a twelve-mile tramp and a bag of a dozen birds is considered good sport and a couple of fish as the result of a half-day's trolling is called good luck. The fishing becomes better, however, as the season advances and the tarpon and sea bass are still plenty after the first of March.

It is not difficult to account for the poor fishing when the fact is considered that the great industry of the south-west coast of Florida is fishing, and a fleet of boats with seines from 600 to 1200 yards in length are in commission during the winter months.

Punta Gorda is the shipping point and 3,000 tons have been shipped since the first of November.

These waters, usually abound with ducks, but the mild winter north has held the birds back and only now and then a scattering flock seen, but the air is balmy and fragrant with the odor of blossoms, while the mocking birds sing the same old tune with old-time sweetness.

The guests at the "National" were reinforced by the Bailey party last Thursday night, composed of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Bailey, their children, Grace, Harvey and Leslie, and Mrs. W. T. Vankirk and Miss Mabel Greenman. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Molenpauw of Clinton, and an acquaintance picked up on the way, Mr. Metcalf of St. Paul.

The house is comfortably filled with as jolly a crowd as ever got together.

Three babblers typical of their class and worse than any old maids that ever happened, one widow and three widowers gave the place an air of single blessedness, which is a little abnormal, but every one accounts on giving everybody a good time and so time slips away at rapid pace.

Mr. Molenpauw is a noted fisherman and he surprised the party by bringing in from his first excursion a nice string of bass and red fish. Just how he captured them is a secret which his northern friends may want to investigate.

Miss Greenman clad in green shooting jacket and short skirt and hunting boots to match, looks the successful huntress, which she has proved herself to be. She came in yesterday with a live blue heron, captured from a rookery in a marsh a couple of miles from the house.

Grape fruit and oranges, fresh from the trees, contribute largely to the diet at the National, and the invalids of the party are convalescing. The collapse of the clock shop enterprise was read with interest, and some one suggested that Mr. Bazzett of Chicago might be related to "Windy Hamilton."

Witnesses Appear Before Recorder Goff in Hearing of Motion for New Test of Case.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] New York, Feb. 19.—Before Recorder Goff in general sessions today the hearing of witnesses began in the hearing of a new trial for Albert T. Patrick, convicted and sentenced for the murder of William Marsh Rice, the aged Texas millionaire.

More than thirty witnesses are to be heard. Among them are some of the best-known physicians and pathologists in the country, who declare that Rice's death could not have been caused by chloroform. The prospect is that the hearing will last many days and that the outcome will decide the fate, once for all, of the man who has fought off death for five years under circumstances that seemed all but hopeless.

Patrick's lawyers will ask for the postponement of the final decision on the motion for a new trial until the arrival here of Corporal Alexander S. Stanbery of the Twelfth United States Infantry, who is now on his way from the Philippines. Stanbery was the predecessor of Jones as secretary and valet for Mr. Rice. He is the personal friend of Jones and, in his affidavit, says Jones told him all his confessions as to the manner of Rice's death were lies and made to save his own life.

Should the result of the present hearing be the refusal of a new trial the defense will apply to the federal court for a writ of error, and application will then be made to have the case considered by the United States supreme court.

MORE THAN 1,000 ARE ENROLLED IN FARMING COURSES

Attendance in Agricultural College at University This Year Shows Growth and Popularity of Scientific Study.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 19.—Over 1,000 students are enrolled in the various departments of the agricultural college of the University of Wisconsin this year, and the enthusiasm for the study of problems in scientific farming is widespread through the state.

The third annual ten days' farmers' course in agriculture closed Saturday with an enrollment of 375 farmers, an increase of sixty-five per cent. over last year's enrollment, which was 227. There are 322 short course students, 162 in the winter dairy course, 120 in the long course, sixteen in the summer dairy course and six students doing graduate work, making a total of 1,017 enrolled in the agricultural college this year.

This immense increase in the popularity of the agricultural courses justifies in a marked manner the faith which President Van Hise of the university and Dean Henry of the agricultural college have had in the appreciation of the farmers of the state for this sort of instruction.

As few of the men engaged in agricultural pursuits could spare the time from their farms to attend the regular courses, the ten days' course was established two years ago as a new kind of university extension work. The attendance this year was not only large, but also enthusiastic, one farmer attesting in conference to the fact that he had "got his money's worth" before he had been at the university forty-eight hours, and another asserting that the information gained in the course was worth $100 to him.

A large number have signified their intention of returning next year, bringing their neighbors, for further instruction in special branches of farm industry.

There were several valuable additions to the daily programs of lectures and demonstrations this year, notably the stereoscopic lecture by Professor E. P. Sandsten on the planning and planting of home grounds; the lecture by Dr. A. S. Alexander, the different breeds of draught horses; and Professor Farrington's lecture on the dairy cow demonstration.

The Louisiana Purchase exposition, the horse breeding industry conference, was the special feature which attracted many visitors. In this connection there were exhibited Saturday many noted prize-winning horses from all over the state, including the champion six-horse team of Percheron geldings shown by Fred Pabst, which was a prize-winner both at the world's fair at St. Louis and at the recent International Live Stock exposition at Chicago. Models of high types of draft horses were also exhibited by Secretary of State House and other expert horse breeders.

The special work of the course relative to horse breeding included lectures and demonstrations on breeds, "points," soundness, post-mortem examinations, and kindred subjects.

Women Students. It is not the men alone who are interested in the development of scientific farming methods. Two women, Mrs. Vernice Langworthy of Augusta, Wis., and Mrs. Maud Hebron of Milwaukee, Wis., enrolled as students in the ten days' farmers' course, finding it even more attractive than the fine program prepared for the housekeepers' conference, which was held at the same time. Besides these there are several women enrolled in the regular courses of work at the agricultural college. Miss Augustine Ellean came from Newark, N. J., to take the short course. One young woman who is a deaf mute was so interested and enthusiastic that she came to the university with a girl companion who acted as interpreter when there were lectures she could not readily understand, and surmounting all obstacles, she is preparing herself to take charge of a model farm of her own.

Growth and Scope of Work. When Dean Henry opened the first agricultural class at the university in 1876, there were but twenty-six students enrolled; now there are over 1,000, representing nearly every state in the union, beside the Philippines, Argentina Republic, Chile, Mexico, Porto Rico and Denmark.

= FORTY YEARS AGO =

Janesville Daily Gazette, Monday, February 19, 1866.—The sale of reserved seats for Anna B. Dickinson's lecture on Home Thrusts, before the Young Men's Association, at Lapham's Hall, will commence at 10 o'clock on Tuesday morning next, at Mosley and Bros. bookstore.

Nothing Like Reputation.—A gentleman who came from Milwaukee on the Milwaukee & Prairie du Chien railroad the other day tells the following of a Janesville man. During the journey two gentlemen sitting in a seat together commenced the discussion of the merits of some spirits they had purchased. One enquired of the other if he supposed the article they had was the same as the sample shown them. The other being in doubt, it was agreed to test the quality, which was accordingly done to the satisfaction of both parties. Anxious to show their hospitality, a proposition was made by one of them to treat a man who was sitting nearby, but the other objected that possibly he did not drink. The first speaker allowed that he knew he did for he saw him buy a ticket to Janesville! This was a clincher and it settled the matter in their minds.

Union Store Meeting.—An adjourned meeting was held at the Court Room, February 17. The meeting was called to order by the Chairman. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The Committee reported Constitution and By-Laws, which were adopted with a slight amendment. The subscription books were then opened and quite a number came forward and subscribed to the capital stock. On motion a committee of five were appointed to solicit further subscriptions to stock, whereupon Messrs. Strasburger, Webster, Nichols, Ross and Hodge were appointed such committee. The meeting then adjourned to meet Saturday evening, Feb. 24th, at the Court Room, at which time it is expected the full organization will be effected.

WHITE SLAVE BEING TRIED FOR MURDER

Bertha Glaiche, Accused of Slaying Master Who Lived Luxuriously on Her Shame.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New York, Feb. 19.—Men and women who have interested themselves in the suppression of the "white slave" traffic will follow with close attention the trial of Bertha Glaiche which was called today before Justice Davis in the criminal branch of the supreme court. The girl is charged with murder as the result of her shooting and killing Emile Gerdron last July. She was a "white slave" and Gerdron was her master. The evidence introduced at the corner's inquest showed the awfulness of the traffic which so far has defied all effort to stamp it out.

Gerdron, who was a young man, always well dressed and of good appearance, picked up the girl in Paris and persuaded her to come to this country under promise of marriage. Upon arrival in New York he forced the girl to live upon the streets, while he lived in comfort upon the earnings of her shame. The evidence showed that several other girls were likewise in his toils. He watched the girls closely and hired others to watch them in order that they might not escape. Several times the Glaiche girl ran away, but was found by Gerdron and unmercifully beaten. Similar beatings were administered whenever the day's earnings did not come up to the expectations or requirements of the monster. Finally, when the beatings became unbearable, the girl had the man arrested. She pointed him out to the officer on the street and he was taken into custody. On the way to the station, the girl following to make the complaint, the man threatened the girl's life and attempted to get at her. The girl took a revolver from her bosom and did not stop until she had emptied its contents into his body.

The trial will be followed closely by several women of wealth and prominence who have taken a strong interest in the French girl ever since her story became known. They confidently expect an acquittal.

HUSBAND GOES BLIND; WIFE'S ILLNESS CAUSE

Protracted Weeping of Boarding House Keeper Results in His Losing Eyesight in His Grief.

New York, Feb. 19.—As a result of a protracted fit of weeping brought on by the announcement of his wife's approaching death, Egbert Terry, a boarding house keeper at East Moriches, N. Y., became totally blind Sunday.

Mrs. Terry, who was suffering from a dangerous malady, visited East Hampton a short time ago, hoping that the change of air might restore her to health. Since then her husband eagerly awaited news of her condition. At last came the announcement of a sudden change for the worse. Terry was seized with a violent fit of weeping. The sympathy of his friends only tended to augment his grief.

When from sheer exhaustion his tears ceased to flow it was discovered that his eyesight was almost gone. He was undergoing treatment for cataracts, which doubtless would have resulted successfully, but he is likely now to be totally blind for life.

Despite his infirmity, Terry has rejoined his wife that he may hold her hand even though he cannot see her face in her last hours of life.

Glasgow, Mo., Feb. 19.—In saving her friend from being crushed by a freight engine, Miss Anna Mae Diggs Sunday afternoon lost her life on the west approach of the Chicago & Alton bridge. Miss Diggs, Miss Louise Arthur and two other young women had walked across the bridge and were nearing the end of the west approach when they heard a train behind them. All four ran and three got safely off the embankment, but Miss Arthur stumbled and fell on the tracks. Miss Diggs ran to her and threw her from the tracks. At the same instant the pilot of the locomotive struck the rescuer, killing her instantly.

NO STATEMENT FROM PECK

Has Thus Far Been Received—Train Order Shown to Jurors and Explained—Dr. Wood's Testimony.

In the assembly room of the city hall at two o'clock this afternoon the coroner's jury, impaneled to ascertain the causes which led up to the terrible railroad catastrophe of Feb. 14 and the death of Joseph Maher, driver on the DeKalb passenger, resumed its inquiry. Conductor Peck was not able to appear. Nor was Engineer Briscoe of the night. But Dr. E. F. Woods, who has the care of both of them, testified that Peck began to regain consciousness yesterday and would be able to make a statement perhaps tomorrow.

Found Trace of Liquor
Brakeman Geo. Rice of the freight was the first witness called. He testified that he felt no cessation of the motion of the train until the crash came. He was sitting in the caboose at the time. This evidence did not support the theory that the engineer threw on the brakes. Dr. Woods, in answer to questions, said he detected an odor of liquor when he examined Conductor Peck, both at the scene of the wreck and at the hospital. The odor, he said, was not very strong. He did not know that any one had administered liquor after the accident. Peck was unconscious and not in a condition to take it of his own volition.

Order Is Exhibited
The order from the chief train dispatcher at Baraboo for Engine 1136 at Janesville, sent to Operator Rollo Stone here at 7:31 and repeated back showing that it was understood here, was exhibited. The order had the O. K. of Conductor Peck at 7:32 and was stamped "Block is clear." The content was "Peck will run extra from Janesville to Caladonia." Supt. Beck testified that this order was good at all times thereafter, but that the rules and time table held the conductor responsible for clearing all regular trains. The order was O. K. at 7:32. The train did not leave here until some minutes after eight.

The Beloit Knights, missing the last Interurban car and failing in their attempts to charter a special by phone, were compelled to remain in Janesville until six o'clock this morning.

DIVORCE LAWS TO BE MADE UNIFORM

Relative in bringing them together to exchange ideas, to perfect a permanent organization, and to recommend informally some solution. All unite in the belief that the gigantic evil of divorce in the United States should be checked. Governor Pennypacker called the conference to order and in his opening address stated the purpose of the gathering to be "to draft a proposed general law which shall be reported to the governors of all the states for submission to the legislatures thereof, with the object of securing as nearly as may be possible, uniform statutes upon the subject of divorce throughout the nation." Because of wide differences in the statutes of some states relative to divorces the difficulty is recognized of settling upon a bill that will pass muster in every state. North and Carolina does not permit divorces at all, and in some states from six months to three years' residence is required before an application is made. In others the persons applying must be natives of the state in which they apply.

Special Laws
It is expected that the congress will give special consideration to an act proposed by a committee appointed some time ago by the American Bar association, to consider the question of divorce. This act says that no divorce shall be granted for any cause existing prior to either party's residence in the state, unless it be the ground of divorce in the state where the case arises. It then takes up the question of actual residence and says that if a person desires to bring action for divorce, if the case has arisen in the state, then he must have had actual residence in that state for at least one year before bringing suit. On the other hand, if the cause for divorce has been outside the state where the action is brought, then the party complaining must have lived for at least two years in the state before bringing action. Another point in the act is the question of bringing divorce suits without proper notice to the defendant. The act declares evidence must be brought that the proper papers have been served on the defendant, or a sufficient time must have elapsed to make it quite certain that the defendant cannot be found in order to serve the suit. Then the act provides that no divorce shall be granted upon default or upon admissions without a regular hearing in court.

The Organization
The forenoon was given over largely to the appointment of the necessary committees and the work of organization. The speakers in their opening addresses cited statistics to show the enormity of the divorce evil in the United States. While late or reliable figures are not available from all sections it is apparent, nevertheless, that divorces are increasing at an alarming rate throughout the country. In Maine, for instance, the figures show that in 1902 there was one divorce in every six marriages; in Ohio the proportion was one in eight; in Indiana one in seven, and in Michigan one in eleven. Certain cities likewise show remarkable percentages. In Kansas City, Seattle, Los Angeles and San Francisco the figures show one divorce to every four marriages. Indianapolis, Dallas and Chattanooga the proportion was one in five, and in Chicago one in nine. New York, with its record of one divorce to every forty marriages, appears almost moral in comparison but this is only because the majority of New Yorkers go out of the city and state to have the marital knot cut.

At White House
This afternoon the delegates to the congress were received at the White House by President Roosevelt, who spoke earnestly of his interest in the divorce problem. Tomorrow the congress will receive a report from the inter-church conference on the action it has taken on the question of marriage and divorce. Bishop Doane of Albany is chairman of the committee which will present this report.

FOUND HIS WIFE HAD RE-MARRIED

Unpleasant Surprise Awaited John Lind, a Modern Enoch Arden, Upon His Return to Stoughton.

Returning to Stoughton on Friday after a long absence in the west and the Klondike during which he had not taken the trouble to keep anyone informed of his whereabouts, John Lind, a Scandinavian, shed bitter tears when he found his wife married to another and a little babe, of which he was not the father, sleeping in the tiny cradle. But Lind had been gone many years and his wife supposed him dead.

The story is one of domestic disagreement. He went west and she refused to follow. Then he sought his fortune in the wilds of Alaska where he stayed six months, doing well, but came back to Seattle, Lind never wrote. Now he holds a position on a railroad out west and is getting $150 per month. A year ago last October Mrs. Lind was married to Peter Olson, a carpenter, thinking her first husband was dead.

Mr. Lind arrived in Evansville, drove to Cooksville, inquiring for his family, then went to Stoughton before the entire truth was told him. His eldest child is a daughter about nine years old. The father gave the little girl $500 and then departed on the earliest train for Madison. The question now is whose wife is Mrs. Lind? Mr. and Mrs. Lind are first cousins and of Swedish nationality.

Connie Mack Talks on Baseball--Believes Foul Strike Law Will Not Be Repeated--Norval Baptie, New Professional Skating Champion.

Connie Mack, who has been appointed as one of the American league's rule committee, does not expect to see many changes made. The American league has always been opposed to the foul strike rule, but it has never been successful in winning the National's over to this way of thinking.

"There are some hardships about the foul strike rule, but I hardly think there is any chance to have the rule repealed," Connie said. "The best we can look for is some modification. Take, for instance, the foul tip that goes back straight over the catcher's head. Now, I don't think it is fair to call a strike on a man for a tip of this sort unless it is evident that the batsman is trying to foul them. There is no man living so clever as to be able to tip the ball over the catcher's head. If we could have this sort of foul strike out it would help some. The foul strike rule, however, has its advantages and will be retained.

"Every year there is a cry, 'Change the rules!' No matter how good the rules could be made, the same cry would arise from some quarter. Well, in the American league we would like to see a little more hitting, but no one seems able to suggest the proper remedy." Did you ever take into consideration the improvements in the pitchers in the last ten years?

"A batsman who is hitting 275 nowadays is as good as the man who ten years ago hit 350. In those days each club had one or two good pitchers, and the batsman would lay for the poor ones, about them all over the lot and give their batting averages a good boost, but when two good pitchers met in those days they had low scores too. Well, at the present time each club carries four or five first class pitchers, and the batsman seldom gets a chance at anything easy to boost up their batting averages.

"Why, I don't think we had more than six or eight what you might call easy games all last season. With such close contests, each team has a chance to the very end of the game it looks to me as though the rules were good enough. The people want a contest, and we could hardly improve in that line by changing the rules."

Norval Baptie is the new professional skating champion of America. He defeated Johnny Nielson of Minneapolis, who held the title for many years.

Baptie challenges the world on either indoor or outdoor courses, preferring the latter, as do most skaters.

A scheme to erect one of the largest skating rinks in the United States is said to be under way now, and before the cold weather sets in next fall the place will be in readiness to conduct skating races regularly. The proposition is said to be in the hands of easterners with large capital, who are in Chicago looking for a suitable location.

The announcement was given out at a recent meeting of the Western Skating association. Members of the organization think if such a place should be constructed it would be a good paying investment and would also create more interest in skating.

McGovern---Nelson.

The Hard Hitting Lightweights to Fight March 14 In Philadelphia.

Interest in the pugilistic world is centered on the coming fight between Terry McGovern and Battling Nelson. The bout occurs March 14 in the National Athletic club of Philadelphia.

Each man claims that he will win. McGovern is very confident of making the Dane stop a lively pace.

"The boys will get to per cent of the gross receipts under the terms of the agreement," says Joe Humphrey, McGovern's manager. "Nelson to get 45, as he's the champion, and Terry 30 per cent. I had to agree to that division, although I think McGovern at any stage of the game would draw as well, if not better, in the east than the Dane. Anyhow, that is the way the money will go. Now, the house will surely be crowded, and that means that over $17,000 will be taken in. Of this the boys will get $12,750, or $7,650 to Nelson and $5,100 to Terry."

An interesting feature figured out by a Philadelphia the other day lies in the fact that the fighters will get $708.25 for every minute they fight provided the six round bout goes its limit, which takes in eighteen minutes.

Billy Nolan, the Dane's manager, would not believe the National Athletic club would hold a $17,000 house, but he was taken over the building and finally convinced. The prices to be charged are from $2 to $10 a seat.

In order to increase the seating capacity of the clubhouse opera chairs are to be put in and some alterations made to the side galleries, which will now seat 208 persons and which are considered choice locations from which to view a contest in the ring.

Even $17,000 didn't altogether satisfy Mr. Nolan. He wanted the scale of prices made from $3 to $15, but Harry Edwards, one of the club officials, finally induced him to accept the lower rates. Mr. Nolan, rather than see the bout go by the board, magnanimously decided that he would permit Battling to box for an estimated sum of $7,650 for six rounds or less. That is a sample of prize ring condescension.

Jack McGulgan will referee the bout. He is the official arbitrator of the National Athletic club.

Nelson has closed his theatrical dates," says Nolan. "He will take a rest at some good country place for two weeks and finish the remaining days in hard training. When he enters the ring he will be in a condition he has always been when ready for a fight, and the followers of the game can rest assured they will see a fight if he is beaten."

NEW SUTRO COMEDY.

Ellis Jeffers Seen in Drama of Society Life.

Alfred Sutro's latest comedy, "The Fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt," which opened at Daly's theater in New York city, reintroduced Miss Ellis Jeffers and her London company. She was given a warm welcome and again showed her finished dramatic powers. It cannot be said, however, that the play itself added appreciably to Mr. Sutro's reputation as a dramatist or met the expectations of New York theatergoers, who had enjoyed "The Walls of Jericho" and "A Matter of Men."

The fascinating Mr. Vanderveldt's agreeable occupation in society is the pursuit of pretty women. His fancy lights upon Lady Clarice Howard, who knows him so well as to find him amusing. Serious for once, he attempts to win her by deliberately compromising her in a cooked up automobile accident so far from home as to make a night's absence seemingly inevitable. Lady Clarice's wit obtains her escape from the dilemma and discomfits him. Lady Clarice wisely marries somebody else. Mr. Vanderveldt steps off the scene.

Drake to Have Big Stable

Speedy Ort Wells Heads the String of Noted Chi- cago Turfmen, Who Doesn't Care Much For Young Horses--Jockey Charles Garner.

The Chicago-New York millionaire, John A. Drake, will have a big stable of horses to carry his colors this year on the tracks of the east and west. He had a small string in the early part of last season, but after the beginning of the fall meeting at Brighton Beach, New York, he added many horses to his outfit.

The best racer in the stable is Ort Wells, and his trainer thinks that he will turn out to be the king pin of the handicap division. This colt developed a little lameness the latter part of 1905 and was retired early. He has been wintering at John Hynes' farm in Connecticut, and, according to reports, he is in good health. His trainer is sure that he will run to his racing form again this season.

At Benning's Out Wells proved that he could run fast and go over a distance. He was entered in many of the best events the following season. He won many races, but was turned out of training early in the fall. Last year he was not rushed in his training and did not go to the post until well on in the season. He ran several races, winning one at the Brighton Beach meeting, but after running once at Saratoga he did not face the starter again, and was retired for the year. Enoch Wishard believes that Ort Wells will come again in good shape and will send him after the best in the next summer. The colt has been nominated for the Suburban, the Commonwealth and the Advance stakes and also the Brighton handicap.

The remainder of the stable this year will be made up mostly of horses from three-year-olds and upward. There will, of course, be some two-year-olds in the string, but Mr. Drake prefers good handicap horses, and for that reason he purchased very few yearlings last year. He has in his stable at the present time many useful racers, which are bound to win a number of purses, and it is safe to say that with a little luck this stable will be well up in the list of winners.

The stable will be supplied with a good rider in Charles Garner, who sprang into prominence while riding Mr. Drake's horses last fall. The boy is fourteen years old and can ride at ninety pounds.

COYOTES ARE PLENTIFUL.

Stockmen of Eastern Oregon Again Annoyed by the Destructive Pest.

For the first time in some years coyotes are plentiful on the eastern Oregon plains this year. Once almost driven out by the determined efforts of the stockmen and the cooperation of state and county governments, they are causing trouble on the sheep ranges.

Several years ago the state placed a bounty on their heads and many eastern Oregon counties offered an additional sum for scalps presented to the county clerk. The sheepmen organized big coyote hunts and the animals were all but driven out. For a time it was a rare thing to see a band and this made the sheepmen careless.

This year finds them again very abundant and they are attacking sheep and even worrying droves of cattle. Coyotes have a systematic way of rounding up a bunch of sheep and then keeping them moving continually. Many thus die of exhaustion, although only a few are eaten. Stockmen are beginning to resort to their old ways of ridding the country of coyotes. The state bounty law is yet in force and the sheepmen will organize coyote hunts.

The Oregon bounty law has been a source of great abuse, and the state has been robbed of many hundreds of dollars. About three years ago a scheme was discovered by which coyote scalps had been shipped into this state for months from Idaho, where there is no bounty, and the regular fee collected.

THE SKY SIGNS OF PARIS.

Of Late Years the City Has Broken Out Overhead in Electric Illuminations.

The other evening I was dining with a Parisian who had been abroad for several years, and asked him what had impressed him most on his return. "When I went away people called me 'l'illuminé' and drank it when they were ill. They had never heard the name of toast in those days, and 'pains grillés' were things to be eaten sparingly with chocolate after the theater. As for the electric sky signs, they make me quite giddy on the boulevards now." It is quite true. Paris of late years has broken out everywhere into electric sky signs, and if the craze for them continues it will be useless for a shop to advertise its whereabouts, except with lettering which can be illuminated at night. On the Place de l'Opera and all along the boulevards the sky signs twinkle in and out like gigantic caterpillars in a made Christmas pantomime, some lighting all at once, others letter by letter, others again lighting in different colors, and going out at one end as the other end is illuminated. As for the cinematograph displays on curtains, these have become comparatively common, and the crowds which used to gather outside and stare up at the Theatre Robert Houdin now have a round half-dozen moving picture shows to choose from, and nothing to pay for any of them. We shall soon be quite Londonized if we do not happen to become Americanized first.

ARTISTS WHO DESTROYED.

Severe Criticism the Cause of Masterpieces Being Done Away With.

By no means unusual was the destruction of the Borgium angels in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine by the sculptor himself while smarting under the criticism that there were no male angels shown, says the New York Herald.

Gerome, the famous French sculptor, had been working for weeks on the clay model of a group representing spring. It had almost reached completion when the artist became convinced that the treatment was wrong and in a minute he had beaten the entire group into a shapeless mass of damp clay.

Hogarth destroyed a picture which had been somewhat severely criticized by one of his friends, but the most spectacular destruction is related of Chartran, who for a time had a studio here. He was visited by the husband of an American woman whose portrait he was painting, $5,000 being the agreed price. The husband, while admitting it to be a splendid work of art, declared that he could see absolutely no likeness to his wife in the pictured face. Chartran laid down his brush, and, taking out his penknife, slit the canvas into ribbons, after which he bowed, his critic out. It afterwards developed that the man was disparaging the portrait merely in the hope of obtaining a reduction in the price.

TWAIN ON VERACITY

Claims to Know More About I. Than J. D. Rockefeller, Jr.

SAYS HE NEVER LIED IN HIS LIFE

Humorist Then Tells Real Story of the Cherry Tree and Hatchet--Expresses Surprise That a Boy Had Such a Good Chance to Lie and Didn't--How He Found Fitting Climax to One of His Famous Tales.

Mark Twain was at the second annual dinner and entertainment given by the Dickens Fellowship the other night at the New York Press club in memory of Charles Dickens, says the New York Herald.

George Cary Eggleston, honorary president of the fellowship, was toastmaster and introduced Mr. Clemens, who recited his troubles with the people who were forever trying to tell him he was the greatest man on earth, or that he needed lessons in the line of upbuilding his character in the matter of veracity. These suggestions, hurt him much, he said, as he was born sensitive and he was twice as sensitive now as then. He declared he had never told a lie in his life.

"John D. Rockefeller, Jr.," told his Sunday school class a few weeks ago," continued Mark Twain, "all about veracity, and why it was better that everybody should always keep a plentiful supply on hand, and I want to say to you that among the hundreds of letters I receive each week many of them have suggested that I ought to attend Mr. Rockefeller's class. I know Mr. Rockefeller very well. He is a fine fellow and competent in many ways, but as to his knowledge of veracity--well, he is only thirty-five years old, and I am seventy. I have been familiar with veracity twice as long as he has."

In talking of his lecture on Artemus Ward Mark Twain told of his trouble in finding a fitting climax to his famous story of Ward's encounter with a "railroad bore"--a species that he particularly detested--who took the seat beside him in a car on a journey to Washington shortly after the close of the war, says W. H. Merrill in Harper's Weekly. Artemus was engaged in reading and in no mood for conversation. But the bore was not to be balked. "Say," he observed to his victim, "I've heard of your nomination for president?" Artemus looked up from his book, according to Twain, and said: "Grant? Grant? Who's Grant?" Paralyzed for a moment, the inquisitor exclaimed, "You don't mean to say you never heard of General U. S. Grant?" "Never heard of him," solemnly answered Artemus. This confession dazed his seatmate for a few minutes, but he returned to the charge with the insinuating suggestion, "They say old Greeley is again him." Again the serious eyes were lifted from the book. "Greeley," he asked--"old Greeley? I never heard of him either. It appears to me, sir, that you know more strangers than any man I ever met!" This was indeed a "stocking-buster." It took the interlocutor fully ten minutes to recover from his surprise. Meanwhile Artemus was deep in his book. Finally the talking one could endure it no longer, and he broke out with, "Say, you damned fool, did you ever hear of Adam?" "Adam? Adam?" replied Artemus meditatively. "Wh-wh-what was his first name?" This closed the conversation. "I couldn't seem to get a good enough climax," said Mark, who confessed to inventing the story, "until I thought of my old friend Adam."

"Good Work of the Automobile." The automobile, has done one good thing--it has made it impossible for a stupid man to live in America, says the Schoolmaster. You must be alert nowadays if you want to live.

Hint Off to the Alibi. The automobile is no longer a wonder; it's a children's toy, says the Schoolmaster. The alibi--that's the thing.

A Peep Into the Future. I stood on the bridge at Midway. The weather was hot in July. And, gazing aloft toward the zenith, I beheld a balloon in the sky.

Far up in the azure it floated. The tiniest speck in the air. And watching it floating I wondered. Its object in being up there.

Sometimes it came down, and I thought it had asked of the aeronaut why he had sailed through the azure so slowly.

As though he were searching the sky he seemed to be lost in conjecture. So much so I had to speak twice. "Excuse me," he said. "I was up there to look for the price of locs."

"And what are the figures?" I queried. Because I was needing cold steel. "I didn't find any," he answered. "I couldn't go high enough."

INDIAN LAND FRAUDS.

President Prevents Quashing of Indictments by District Attorney.

Washington, Feb. 19.--President Roosevelt has taken personal interest in the charges of fraud and corruption which are said to have occurred in connection with the affairs of the five civilized tribes in Indian territory. But for his interference indictments against several parties alleged to have been engaged in illegal practices would have been quashed. Now, however, under his orders the interior department is pushing its investigations with increased vigor and it is reliably stated that in the near future a number of new indictments will be reported against several men already indicted. Included in the list will be a number of persons whose names have not heretofore been brought into the cases, including a high government official in Washington. When it became known to the president that the district attorney for Indian territory had been instructed to quash some indictments already found he immediately sent orders countermanding this proposed action. He was led to do this by information received by him that after March 4, when the tribal relations of the five civilized tribes cease, certain facts would be put into his possession which would strengthen the hands of the government in its efforts to bring to a trial a number of persons guilty of gross frauds perpetrated against the Indians. It is known that Secretary Hitchcock has submitted to the president and to Attorney General Moody a special report dealing with the whole subject which, it is said, gives such details as to make it imperative for the government to act. For obvious reasons the report, for the present at least, will not be made public, but Secretary Hitchcock characterizes the disclosures it makes as "startling."

Postal Clerks Expect Increase. Washington, Feb. 19.--Those who have been working to increase the pay of postal clerks are much encouraged. L. J. Niemchewsky, president of the Chicago Postoffice Clerks' union No. 5703, has arranged to have the legislative committee of the American Federation of Labor take up the work of securing the passage of a bill which proposes that postal clerks in all first class offices receiving less than $1,200 a year shall have their pay increased at the rate of $100 a year until they do receive that amount, and those now receiving $1,200 a year may, in the discretion of the Postmaster General, have their salaries raised to $1,400. In second class offices the bill proposes by the same method of increase to make the minimum compensation $1,000 for those now receiving less and to raise the $1,000 clerks to $1,200. Postmasters general for years in their annual reports have referred to the inadequate pay of postal clerks, but relief has been denied largely because of the extraordinary expenses to which the department was subjected because of abuses of second class mail matter, subsidies, frauds in weighing the mails and other drains upon the revenues.

Foreign Trade Report. Washington, Feb. 19.--Consular reports showing a bright outlook for the foreign trade of the United States are given out in the weekly bulletin of the Department of Commerce and Labor made public Sunday. Reports from Austria-Hungary show that the empire purchased $2,000,000 more of American cotton in 1904 than in the year previous, when the purchases were $20,700,000. Switzerland in 1904 took $10,389,000 worth of American goods and sent back in return $20,523,000 worth, nearly half of which was manufactured cotton. Consul Osmun at Stuttgart says Germany is importing American shoe manufacturing machinery and American foremen to run the shops.

Secretary Taft left Washington last night for Chicago, Detroit and other western cities, where he will attend several banquets.
